COMMUNICATION & LANGUAGE (LISTENING/UNDERSTANDING/SPEAKING)

Introduction

The following section outlines the end of year expectations for Pre-Nursery Class children for vocabulary, grammar and functional language(listening & speaking). It is important to note that this process happens organically over time and can't be rushed. Find opportunities during interactive play as well as class time to introduce new words and their meaning through context. There are effective methods to achieve the end of year goals, such as:

- The use of nursery rhymes, stories and readers that repeat or emphasize a particular sentence structure.
- Routine: Children learn language through repetition. Use the daily routines and circle time to drill language.
- Play: Teachers should think carefully about how they teach specific words and sentences whilst guiding their play. Incorporate play-based activities that are inviting and interesting.

Below you will find a list of topics in each category that the children should be familiar with by the end of the year.

Scaffolded learning

It is good practice to set targets and goals to reach for each individual child based on their current skill set and level of development. There are strategies that can be implemented to further build on the knowledge and skills of children, and these are best determined by accurate and stringent observation and documentation. However, it is equally relevant to note that the challenges and targets we set for children are attainable and are compartmentalized. Just like building a house, we begin with the foundation and then build on it brick by brick, allowing children ample opportunities to learn from peers as well as teachers. The methods above not only build language proficiency but also nurture a love for learning and curiosity.

	green, blue, orange, pink, purple, black, white, brown Vocabulary will build naturally through context. Children will often learn words when they are repeated frequently, as part of a routine. Children also often acquire new words when exploring a topic that they have a particular interest in, which is why it is so important to promote inquiry-based learning!

LITERACY

Introduction

The following section outlines the end of year expectations for Pre-Nursery Class children for phonics, reading and writing. It is first important to acknowledge that not all learning for literacy will take place in the scheduled classes. Children can also gain exposure to literacy focused materials within the classroom environment, for example through wall posters, provocation tables and decorations outside of the classroom entrance.

For teaching literacy, there are some useful tips that can prove useful for early years teachers:

- Use games - games are engaging and make learning fun. Make good use of them for phonics and reading.
- Read stories regularly and bring them to life. Design activities around the book.
- Be creative! Don't limit yourself to traditional methods. Observe experienced teachers and research online for inspirational ideas for provocation in literacy.
- Use sight words - As well as phonics and stories, introduce children to specific words in written form that hold important relevance. For example numbers, food, animals.

PHONICS	READING	WRITING
End of Year Expectations: Children at this age do not learn phonics through a systematic approach, instead the aim is to expose the children to the letters of the alphabet and to phonological awareness. The focus is on exploring the pronunciation of letters, incorporating nursery rhymes and music, and to repeat words or sounds in story-sharing and when singing songs.	End of Year Expectations: Children can understand short stories and interact with teachers using body language or words. Children gradually begin to develop good reading habits such as knowing how to handle a book and turn the pages in a right way and developing curiosity and understanding of printed imagery.	End of Year Expectations: In pre-nursery, writing exercises are often organized in the form of drawing and pattern creation, as children are mainly engaged in mark-making at this age. Therefore, pre-nursery literacy should be an environment of creative artistic expression and pattern recognition.

• Teach the alphabet through a variety of methods. When exploring letters, it is not essential to introduce them in alphabetical order. • Jolly phonics songs can be used to capture children's interest in phonics. Nursery rhymes are also accompanied by a variety of simple actions, allowing children to learn letters and build phonological awareness through listening, imitation and body language. However, formal teaching of phonics is not necessary in pre-nursery. Instead, try to combine corresponding content to develop children's phonological awareness. • Emphasis should be placed on playing games to teach the alphabet and phonics in order to make the lessons more interactive, engaging and fun. Activities such as story-sharing and nursery rhymes are also very effective. Examples of this include encouraging children to chant "c, c, c, caterpillar" with teachers while reading "The Very Hungry Caterpillar story", or in the greetings, familiarize the children with the alphabet by emphasizing the first letter of the children's names ("Candy's name starts with letter 'C', c,c,c", and use your hand to show the shape of letters at the same time). • Incorporate interesting sounds into your classes, for example, 'Cows say moo, can you say moo?' • Display more pictures, books, or toys of related to the alphabet in the classroom, this will improve	• Books that pre-nursery children like are usually simple story books with interesting illustrations and short and rhythmic words that are easy to read and remember for young children. Pre-nursery children are particularly interested in books that have numbers, letters, animals, transportation, and popular cartoon figures. • Teachers should share one English story every day (which can be either a new story or one of class favorites). Every teacher should prepare a story basket with toys and realia such as story books and hand puppets. • Help young children learn to turn the pages in the right manner and guide them to say what they see on each page. While reading stories, the teacher should pause appropriately, leading young children to think about what will happen next. • Encourage young children to act out the story they are reading, for example, ask children to jump like a kangaroo in the book.	• Provide young children with various illustrating tools, such as big crayons, thick chalks, and markers, to support their development of fine-motor skills. • Invite young children to practice writing letters with their fingers (prepare tactile and sensory letter-tracing board). • Provide a variety of materials such as play-dough, blocks, puzzles, and loose parts to help young children 'write' letters in different ways.

the children's recognition of letters and their corresponding pronunciation throughout the environment. • Play-based activities such as rhythmic clapping/ beating while reading/singing are encouraged to help children develop the awareness of words, syllables and rhyming.

Ways to Share Books with Babies & Toddlers

• Make Sharing Books Part Of Every Day Read or share stories at circle time or library time. • Have Fun Children can learn from you that books are fun, which is an important ingredient in learning to read. • Talk or Sing About the Pictures You do not have to read the words to tell a story. • Let Children Turn the Pages Babies need board books and help turning pages, but a three-year-old can do it alone. Remember, it's OK to skip pages! • Show Children the Cover Page Explain what the story is about.	• Make the Story Come Alive Create voices for the story characters and use your body to tell the story. • Make It Personal Talk about your own family, pets, or community when you are reading about others in a story. • Ask Questions About the Story, and Let Children Ask Questions Too! Use the story to engage in conversation and to talk about familiar activities and objects. • Let Children Tell the Story Children as young as three years old can memorize a story, and many children love to be creative through storytelling.

PN songs & Fingerplay

English songs played in pre-nursery class are mainly nursery rhymes. Young children should be able to follow the rhythm, make corresponding actions, and enjoy participating in the acting. They are not required to sing the whole English rhymes or finger-play songs on their own as long as they can sing together with teachers or with the music.

LITERACY

Introduction

The following section outlines the end of year expectations for Nursery Class children for phonics, reading and writing. It is first important to acknowledge that not all learning for literacy will take place in the scheduled classes. Children can also gain exposure to literacy focused materials within the classroom environment, for example through wall posters, provocation tables and decorations outside of the classroom entrance.

For teaching literacy, there are some useful tips that can prove useful for early years teachers:

- Use games - games are engaging and make learning fun. Make good use of them for phonics and reading.
- Use sight words - As well as phonics and stories, introduce children to specific words in written form that hold important relevance. For example numbers, food, animals.

PHONICS	READING	WRITING
End of Year Expectations: There is no systematic phonics teaching in nursery. However, children start to learn letters and pronunciation(sound) alphabetically, and participate in alphabet-related inquiry (nursery rhymes, rhythm,	End of Year Expectations: Nursery is the preparation stage for reading. Children in nursery like to listen to stories, and they can understand more plots and recognize the major events and characters in stories. Their reading is mainly in the form	End of Year Expectations: Children in nursery start to build their pre-writing skills, which lays a firm foundation for their formal writing. Writing activities should be integrated into daily routines and play to ensure a natural and enjoyable learning

handcraft, etc.), further developing their awareness of the alphabet and pronunciation. Up until the end of nursery, they can accurately read and recite the names and pronunciation of all the letters in the alphabet. With the prior knowledge of phonological awareness, children start to learn about phonemic awareness(the ability to focus on and manipulate the smallest sounds in words).	of perceptual experience. In addition to stories, they like to sing nursery rhymes as well. At this stage, teachers should provide children with a variety of activities related to listening and speaking, making the most of the first critical period of children’s language development.	process.
• Teach the name and pronunciation of each letter alphabetically. Explore letter-related words through comprehensive learning and exploration such as handicraft, painting, nursery rhymes, rhythms, and related web-based materials. Progress should be assessed according to the children’s ability and level of development, generally teaching one letter every two days. • Learning pronunciation requires to ensure accuracy. Starfall & twinkl can be used. Explore letters and pronunciations with children with fun. • Using small hand-held mirrors encourage children to exaggerate and “feel the sound in your mouth”, as well as “listen to your voice” to help children gain a multi-sensory representation of differences in phonemes.	• Teachers should share at least one English story, one nursery rhyme every day (Children should be able to sing one nursery rhyme independently every 2 weeks, and teachers are required to send audio and/or video files to the children’s parents on Fridays.) • Since children in nursery are still not able to read independently and need guidance from teachers, teachers could try to encourage children to adapt the story and invite children to participate more in the reading experience. • In the process of story-reading, children are encouraged to actively respond to teacher’s questions as well as raise relevant questions as the story develops. During story-sharing, teachers should guide children to observe and think, and encourage children to ask and answer questions based on the content of stories.	• Teachers could create a reading and writing corner and place materials that can promote children’s development of literacy. For example, loose parts, letter-related toys, word cards, pictures, books and so on. More relevant inspirations could be found by searching keywords online. • Nursery focuses on developing pre-writing skills. In early nursery, children can trace lines, dotted lines, wavy lines, curves, poly-lines, and various shapes such as circle and square. Children in late nursery are able to trace larger letters. • Children can draw basic shapes and figures (e.g., circles, squares, stick figures). • Children can write their English names with the help of tracing card. Teachers could customize and laminate a name tracing card for each child, place it on the sign-in desk to facilitate daily practice. • Children can use scissors to cut along straight lines, glue and paste small objects to create simple collages.

13 Tips for Reading to a Group

1. Be sure all children can see and hear the story.
2. Choose a story that will appeal to your audience and suit the children's attention span.
3. Choose a book with bright and large illustrations
4. Provide an alternate activity for those who lose interest.
5. Choose books that invite participation through repeated verses or rhymes.
6. Start by grabbing their attention with "magic story dust" or a calming finger-play.
7. Ask questions to set the stage for listening. For example, "What do you think will happen to Miffy mouse?"
8. Substitute the children's names for character names to add interest.
9. Be flexible. Skip or alter parts of a book as the needs of your young listeners' dictate.
10. Use props/puppets to bring a story to life.
11. Try a new introduction or attention grabber before starting a story.
12. Pick a book the children are familiar with. Add their names or make silly mistakes to get their attention
13. Try asking the children to predict what will happen next.

In addition, although it is often tempting for teachers to find books that are precisely relevant to their current theme or topic, it is not always a strict rule of thumb. Children make connections between phenomena and concepts by themselves, and it is good to add variety. When choosing a book, focus on the book itself primarily rather than worrying about whether or not it includes specific vocabulary you are teaching.

COMMUNICATION & LANGUAGE (LISTENING/UNDERSTANDING/SPEAKING)

Introduction

The following section outlines the end of year expectations for K1 Class children for vocabulary, grammar and functional language(listening & speaking). It is important to note that this process happens organically over time and can't be rushed. Find opportunities during interactive play as well as class time to introduce new words and sentences and their meaning through context and children's interests. There are effective methods to achieve the end of year goals, such as:

- The use of nursery rhymes, stories and readers that repeat or emphasize a particular sentence structure.
- Routine: Children learn language through repetition. Use the daily routines and circle time to drill language.
- Play: Teachers should think carefully about how they teach specific words and sentences whilst guiding their play. Incorporate play-based activities that are inviting and interesting.

Below you will find a list of topics in each category that the children should be familiar with by the end of the year. The methods above not only build language proficiency but also nurture a love for learning and curiosity.

LITERACY

Introduction

The following section outlines the end of year expectations for K1 Class children for phonics, reading & writing. It is first important to acknowledge that not all learning for literacy will take place in the scheduled classes. Children can also gain exposure to literacy focused materials within the classroom environment, for example through wall posters, provocation tables and decorations as well as the reading corner.

For teaching literacy, there are some useful tips that can prove useful for early years teachers:

- Use games - games are engaging and make learning fun. Make good use of them for phonics and reading.
- Use sight words - As well as phonics and stories, introduce children to specific words and sentences in written form that hold important relevance to the children's interests.
- Expose the children to sentence structures regularly through conversations, circle time and at learning stations.

PHONICS	READING	WRITING
End of Year Expectations: K1 children start to systematically study phonetics in accordance with Jolly Phonics/Twinkl phonetic teaching materials. At the end of K1, all children will have learned the seven sets of pronunciations and spelling rules, and be able to spell out words with a variety of structures. In addition, children should know the common tricky words.	End of Year Expectations: Formal reading starts in K1, however, it still relies on the effective participation of adults and this is the accompanying reading stage. With the deepening of phonetic learning, K1 children can read according to different levels of reading requirements, gradually develop the habit of reading, acquire reading strategies, master reading methods, and continuously improve their English language skills.	End of Year Expectations: In terms of writing, K1 children should be able to write more words and begin structuring sentences based on phonetic spelling rules and high-frequency words they have learned.

- Teach phonemes according to the sequence below, and teach two to three phonemes every week depending on children's ability. Daily review is required, including pronunciation and spelling practice(Teachers could help children remember letters and pronunciations through use of dance, videos, books etc): - s, a, t, i, p, n - c k, e, h, r, m, d - g, o, u, l, f, b - ai, j, oa, ie, ee, or (Alternative spellings of vowels: ay, a_e, o_e,ow, igh, ie, y, ea) - z, w, ng, v, oo, oo - y, x, ch, sh, th, th - qu, ou, oi, ue, er, ar (ow, oy, u_e, ew, ir, ur) - The 8 steps for teaching a letter sound: - Story containing the sound - Action - Flashcard - Letter formation - Blending - Sounding - Dictation - Songs - While finishing teaching the first set of phonemes, teacher could start to teach simple CVC words, for example s-a-t, sat; - Start to teach tricky words when teaching the third set of phonemes. - In the second term of K1, starts to introduce initial consonant blends, e.g. fl, br, cr...	- Reading books can be introduced after children complete the first two sets of phonemes. At the beginning stage, books chosen should be easy and simple, usually three to four regular words in every sentence. Teachers can refer to the small book printed on the website or the level aa books from Reading A-Z reading program. In the second semester, Guided Reading Program should be formally started (specific starting time can be advanced or postponed according to the children's overall learning outcome). Children should read at least 3 books(including new and previously read books) every week. - Accompanied by teacher, children could read books themselves or in small groups, starting from finger point reading. - Prepare a file holder for each child. Invite children to choose the book to read by themselves every Friday, ask them to take it home for weekends and read with their parents and return it to school on Monday morning, helping children develop a good habit of taking care of and borrowing books. - Arrange independent reading time for children every day, as well as group reading and shared reading time. - Book Recognition:Begin recognizing book parts (cover, title, author) consistently. - Book Making: Create one original story with the children as a class or individually.	- In terms of writing practice, in accordance with the requirement of phonics material, teachers can arrange pencil grip practice, air writing, and tracing on workbook. - Make a My Word Book for each child, and ask them to practice writing tricky words and other spelling words they learned every day along with their own drawing of picture to describe the words. Review and practice these words regularly. - Create a particular writing area. It can be arranged as a post office and other corresponding life scenes, inviting children to explore the mystery of writing with fun. Various writing tools and paper should be placed in the classroom to meet children's increasing interest in writing. - Make a My Daily Journal/Dairy book for each child and encourage them to learn to document their daily life at school with writing and drawing. - Use sentence starters and visual prompts to encourage sentence writing. Conduct daily writing exercises and share examples with the class. - Encourage children to write new words they learn every day along with their own drawing of picture to describe the words. Review and practice these words regularly.

- Teach two to three high-frequency words every week. Children should be able to recognize these words proficiently.

Fiddle-De-Dee

Fiddle-de-dee, fiddle-de-dee,
The fly has married the bumblebee.
Said the fly, said he, "Will you marry me?
And live with me, sweet bumblebee?"
Fiddle-de-dee, fiddle-de-dee,
The fly has married the bumblebee.
Said the bee, said she,
"I'll live under your wing,
And you'll never know I carry a sting."
Fiddle-de-dee, fiddle-de-dee,
The fly has married the bumblebee.
So when Parson Beetle had married the pair,
They both went out to take the air.
Fiddle-de-dee, fiddle-de-dee,
The fly has married the bumblebee.
And the flies did buzz, and the bells did ring,
Did you ever hear so merry a thing?
Fiddle-de-dee, fiddle-de-dee,
The fly has married the bumblebee.
And the flies did buzz, and the bells did ring,
Did you ever hear so merry a thing?
Fiddle-de-dee, fiddle-de-dee,
The fly has married the bum-ble bee!

Mary had a Little Lamb

Mary had a little lamb,
Little lamb, little lamb.
Mary had a little lamb,
Its fleece was white as snow.

And everywhere that Mary went,
Mary went, Mary went.
Everywhere that Mary went,
The lamb was sure to go.

It followed her to school one day,
School one day, school one day.
It followed her to school one day,
Which was against the rule.

It made the children laugh and play,
Laugh and play, laugh and play.
It made the children laugh and play,
To see a lamb at school.

So the teacher turned him out,
turned him out, turned him out.
So the teacher turned him out,
And sent him straight away.

Miss Polly Had A Dolly

Miss Polly had a dolly who was sick, sick, sick.
So she phoned for the doctor to be quick, quick, quick.
The doctor came with his bag and hat,
And knocked at the door with a rat tat tat.

He looked at the dolly and shook his head,
And said "Miss Polly put her straight to bed."
He wrote a pad for a pill, pill, pill.
I'll be back in the morning with my bill, bill, bill.

One elephant went out to play

One elephant went out to play
Upon a Spiders web one day
He had such enormous fun
That he called for another elephant to come.

Two elephants went out to play
Upon a Spiders web one day
They had such enormous fun
That they called for another elephant to come.

Three elephants went out to play
Upon a Spiders web one day
They had such enormous fun
That they called for another elephant to come.

Four elephants went out to play
Upon a Spiders web one day

All the elephants were out at play
Upon a spiders web one day
They had such enormous fun
But there were no more elephants left to come!

Over the deep blue sea

'Twas a sunny day when I went to play
down by the sea.

I climbed aboard a pirate ship
and the Captain said to me,
"We're going this way, that way.
Forwards, backwards.

Up and down, up and down.
Over the deep blue sea."

'Twas a windy day when I went to play
down by the sea.

I climbed aboard a pirate ship
and the Captain said to me,
"We're going this way, that way.
Forwards, backwards.
Up and down, up and down.
Over the deep blue sea."

'Twas a rainy day when I went to play
down by the sea.

I climbed aboard a pirate ship
and the Captain said to me,
"We're going this way, that way.
Forwards, backwards.
Up and down, up and down.
Over the deep blue sea."

"We're going this way, that way.

Forwards, backwards.
Up and down, up and down.
Over the deep blue sea."

'Twas a stormy day when I went to play

COMMUNICATION & LANGUAGE (LISTENING/UNDERSTANDING/SPEAKING)

Introduction

The following section outlines the end of year expectations for K2 Class children for vocabulary, grammar and functional language(listening & speaking). It is important to note that this process happens organically over time and can't be rushed. Find opportunities during interactive play as well as class time to introduce new words, sentences and phrases and their meaning through context. There are effective methods to achieve the end of year goals, such as:

- The use of nursery rhymes, stories and readers that repeat or emphasize a particular sentence structure.
- Routine: Children learn language through repetition. Use the daily routines and circle time to drill language.
- Play: Teachers should think carefully about how they teach specific words and sentences whilst guiding their play. Incorporate play-based activities that are inviting and interesting.

Below you will find a list of topics in each category that the children should be familiar with and able to have an understanding of by the end of the year. The methods above not only build language proficiency but also nurture a love for learning and curiosity.

LITERACY

Introduction

The following section outlines the end of year expectations for K2 Class children for phonics, grammar, and reading & writing. It is first important to acknowledge that not all learning for literacy will take place in the scheduled classes. Children can also gain exposure to literacy focused materials within the classroom environment, for example through wall posters, provocation tables and decorations as well as the reading areas.

For teaching literacy, there are some useful tips that can prove useful for early years teachers:

- Use games - games are engaging and make learning fun. Make good use of them for phonics and reading.
- Use sight words - As well as phonics and stories, introduce children to specific words and commonly used sentences in written form that hold important relevance. For example using themes that the children are interested in.

PHONICS	READING	WRITING
End of Year Expectations: At the beginning of K2, teachers should not rush to teach new knowledge. Instead, teachers should guide children to review the seven sets of phonemes in	End of Year Expectations: Practice of reading in K2 is more formal. Strengthen the development of reading ability and interest in accordance with the requirements in Guided Reading	End of Year Expectations: Provide children with more opportunities to free creation and spelling practice to increase their interest in writing. By the end of the year, children should demonstrate

accordance with the five sets of skills in phonics, helping them build a solid foundation. K2 teaching focuses on strengthening children's spelling skills of letter combinations and developing independent writing skills.	series.	developing writing skills, focusing on constructing coherent sentences, using proper grammar and punctuation, and writing for various purposes. Writing activities should be varied and seamlessly integrated into all areas of learning to foster creativity and practical application.
- Review one set of phonics every week, mainly with the support of various workbooks, word wall, letter board, dictation, etc., to consolidate the ability and skills of spelling. - Focusing on developing the ability to write independently, which is also an important goal of learning phonics. - The 5 basic skills for reading and writing are: Learning the letter sounds; learning letter formation; blending; Identifying sounds in words(Segmenting) ; spelling the tricky words. - According to Dolch 220 Sight Words to learn commonly used high-frequency words, and create sight words wall with children together. Invite children to choose the book to read by themselves every day, ask them to take them home for weekends and read with their parents and return them to school on Monday morning. Teachers should check children's reading completion one-on-one and make a record. - Arrange independent reading time for children every day, as well as group reading and sharing time. - Graphic Organizers: After reading, engage children in discussions and ask open-ended questions about the text. Use graphic organizers to help children organize their thoughts. (e.g. mind maps, flow charts, bar charts, etc.) - Reading for Different Purposes: Read for enjoyment, information, and learning new concepts, including fiction, non-fiction, and informational texts. - Drama: Engage children in performing at least one story on stage in a book of their choice.	- Make a My Word Book for each child, and ask them to practice writing tricky words and other spelling words they learned every day along with their own drawing of picture to describe the words. Review and practice these words regularly. - Create a particular writing area. It can be arranged as a post office and other corresponding life scenes, inviting children to explore the mystery of writing with fun. Various writing tools and paper should be placed in the classroom to meet children's increasing interest in writing. - Writing for Different Purposes: Design the poster, flyer, booklet, brochure, name card or any other manner of print for an Inquiry Unit. - Use of computer: Use the keyboard to search for resources on the internet/intranet. - Make a My Daily Journal/Dairy book for each child and encourage them to learn to document their daily life at school. - Children should master the rules of using punctuation, understand the difference between comma and period and their usage, and know spacing between words when writing. - Children in K2 should be able to independently create simple stories in English, or continue to write stories, create endings and other writing forms, and

English Song

When Christmas comes to town

I'm wishing on a star

And trying to believe

That even though it's far

He'll find me Christmas Eve

I guess that Santa's busy

'Cause he's never come around

I think of him when Christmas comes to town

The best time of the year

When everyone comes home

With all this Christmas cheer

It's hard to be alone

Putting up the Christmas tree

With friends that come around

It's so much fun when Christmas comes to town

Presents for the children wrapped in red and green

All the things I've heard about but never really seen

No one will be sleeping on the night of Christmas Eve

Hoping Santa's on his way

Presents for the children wrapped in red and green

All the things I've heard about but never really seen

No one will be sleeping on the night of Christmas Eve

Hoping Santa's on his way

When Santa's sleight bells ring

I listen all around

The herald angels sing

I never hear a sound

And all the dreams of the children

Once lost will all be found

That's all I want when Christmas comes to town

That's all I want when Christmas comes to town

Everything is going to be alright

Sometimes I get a little angry.

When I can't find my favorite toy.

Sometimes I get a little angry.

When I can't find my favorite toy.

Then I stop. I close my eyes.

And take a deep breath.

'Cause everything is going to be alright.

Sometimes I get a little scared.

When my Mommy turns out the light.

Sometimes I get a little scared.

When my Mommy turns out the light.

Then I stop. I close my eyes.

And take a deep breath.

'Cause everything is going to be alright.

Sometimes I get a little shy.

When I meet somebody new.

Sometimes I get a little shy.

When I meet somebody new.

Then I stop. I close my eyes.

And take a deep breath.

'Cause everything is going to be alright.

Sometimes I get a little sad.

When I say goodbye to my friends.

Sometimes I get a little sad.

When I say goodbye to my friends.

Then I stop. I close my eyes.

And take a deep breath.

'Cause everything is going to be alright.

When I'm feeling angry.

When I'm feeling scared.

When I'm feeling shy.

Or when I'm feeling sad.

I stop. I close my eyes.

And take a deep breath.

'Cause everything is going to be alright.

'Cause everything is going to be alright.

Dashing through the snow,
in a one-horse open sleigh.

O'er the fields we go,
laughing all the way.

Please shine down on,
please shine down on,
please shine down on me.

Circle Time Activities and Ideas

我们每天一共有两个圆圈活动时间，分别是 Morning Circle 和下午放学前的 Closing Circle，早上的圆圈活动主要围绕以下几个环节进行：

- Hello Songs
- Calendar
- Weather
- Stories
- Other Language or Literacy Activities（建议从中班开始每天都要有一个学习语言的固定环节，通过各种形式学习单词或句型，发展英语语言能力）

- Song or musical movements

下午放学前的圆圈活动主要是帮助幼儿回忆和反思今天在幼儿园学的知识，有趣的经历等，其次是做好放学前的准备，引导幼儿养成自己收整书包，穿好衣服等良好的行为习惯。

Circle Songs and Chants Ideas

Hello song 1

Hello to everyone, and how are you today,

Come to our circle time and sing and laugh and play,

When you are up you up,

And when you are down you are down

When you are only halfway up

You are neither up or down

And roll your hands so slowly...

And roll your hands so fast

Give yourself a clap clap clap and put them in your lap lap lap.

Hello song 2 (Super Simple Song)

Hello, hello, hello how are you,

Hello, hello, hello how are you,

I'm good, I'm great, I'm wonderful.

I'm good, I'm great, I'm wonderful.

Hello, hello, hello how are you,

Hello, hello, hello how are you,

I'm tired, I'm hungry, I'm not so good.

Hello, hello, hello how are you...

Hello song 3 (Super Simple Song)

Hello, hello, can you clap your hands?

Hello, hello, can you clap your hands?

Can you stretch up high, Can you touch your toes?

Can you turn around, can you say hello?

Hello, hello, can you stamp your feet?

Hello, hello, can you stamp your feet?

Can you stretch up high, Can you touch your toes?

Can you turn around, can you say hello?

Hello, hello, can you clap your hands?

Hello, hello, can you stamp your feet?

Here We Sit Together

Here we sit together, together, together

Here we sit together, all here on the floor.

There's ____ and ____ and ____

(etc, until every child has said their name - it's best to go clockwise around the circle starting with the teacher)

Here we sit together, all here on the floor.

Bread and butter, marmalade and jam,

Let's say hello as quietly as we can.

Bread and butter, marmalade and jam,

Let's say hello as loud as we can.

Bread and butter, marmalade and jam,

Let's say hello as quickly as we can.

Let's say hello as slowly as we can.

Hello (very slowly)

Bread and butter marmalade and jam,

Let's say hello as high as we can.

Let's say hello as low as we can.

Hello (low and deep voice)

Good morning to you, good morning to you!

We are all in our places with bright shiny faces and I say to you,
good morning to you!

Good morning ____(child's name), good morning ____(child's name), good morning ____(child's name) we're glad you're here today!

(Continue until every child and every teacher in the classroom is named.)
